

Reduction in Grain Rates Saves Alberta Farmers a Million

Issued by Publicity Commissioners,
Government of Alberta, Edmonton,
September 5, 1925

Reductions in grain rates from Alberta to the Pacific coast which will mean hundreds of thousands of dollars in saving to the farmers of the province, have come about as a result of an order by the Board of Railway Commissioners equalizing grain rates westbound with those east-bound.

A. Chard, Freight Traffic Supervisor of the Provincial Government, issued the following statement on the order.

"The announcement from Ottawa that the Railway Board has equalized the grain rates west-bound with those east-bound sounds the death knell to all opposition to the western route. September 2nd, 1925, will go down in history as a red letter day for the Province of Alberta as well as for the Pacific ports, for, as water will run down hill, so will traffic follow the lines of least resistance. The equalized rate on the shorter rail haul will inevitably produce a smaller through cost, consequently Alberta's wheat will export via Pacific ports. Now that the permit system which prevented direct individual shipments being made to Vancouver has been withdrawn, with the prospect of wheat being sold on the Vancouver basis instead of Fort William, the producer is in the position where he can be assured of the advantage of the increased price accruing to him. The specific reductions on mileage basis will make the new rate 18 cents from Calgary and 20 cents from Edmonton to Vancouver, as compared with the old rate of 22½ cents from both points. The reduction from a point 800 miles distance will be 4½ cents per 100 lbs. To field is 807 miles from Vancouver; taking 800 miles as an average haul, the reduction in cost will be 2 7/10 cents per bushel of wheat.

"In 1923 fifty-five million bushels passed through one elevator in Vancouver. With the storage capacity now over four times as great at that port, and a new elevator being constructed at Prince Rupert and no dearth of shipping space, Alberta will experience no inconvenience in sending all her wheat westward this year. If fifty million bushels go this route at a saving of an average of 2 cents per bushel, one million dollars more will remain in the pockets of the Alberta farmers.

"While the specific application on which this judgment was rendered was launched by the Province of British Columbia, it was only a follow-up to the Railway Commission after an appeal to the Privy Council by the Province of Alberta and British Columbia in 1923 against the decision rendered by the Board in British Columbia's application for removal of the mountain differential. After the hearing by the Privy Council, the Board ordered a 10% reduction on the west-bound grain rates, which came into effect in October, 1923. The application was then launched by British Columbia and was heard at Vancouver in November, 1924. The Government of Alberta was represented by counsel and its Traffic Officer at the hearing and gave full support to the application from the producers' viewpoint.

"It is noted that the order is signed by the Chief Commissioner and Commissioner Oliver, three other Commissioners dissenting, but the Chief Commissioner says the order stands and the rates will come into effect September 15, which will cover the most of this year's crop."

Local Merchant Gives the Poultry Industry a Hoist.

There will be more than one "Glorious Twelfth" this year, and it has been left to one of our local merchants to make the introduction. It will be a day of surprises as well as one for rejoicing, and those who take part in the celebration will probably advocate that it be a yearly event too.

Saturday next, September 12th, has been selected by J. V. Berscht for the commencement of his big sale of merchandise, and during the next week or two he will literally slash prices to dispose of his present stock. The principal reason for the big slash is, tersely put, new store, new goods.

And what a stock. Just cast your eye over the poster, and note the various reductions. It matters not whether its boots and shoes, or just merely a pair of suspenders, you'll find the range big and the selection easy. Man, woman and child will multiply their requirements when they realise the big saving effected.

And don't forget the fable of the early worm and its untimely end. (Possibly it was a deserving one at that.) Anyhow, this is the worm's innings, because the first ten customers entering Mr. Berscht's store Saturday morning, and spending $10, will get the bird—a real live rooster and well bred. One might say well trained, for it comes of the same strain as a "Big Ben," and as an alarm clock it has no equal.

There are other inducements, too, one of which will appeal especially to the humble spud, the heaviest of which when brought into the store will entitle its grower to a $5 hat.

But why elaborate, when a visit to the store on Saturday will give you the opportunity of investigating for yourself.

General Election Oct. 29.

RICHMOND HILL, Ont., Sept. 8.—In a keynote speech which heralded a short but lively campaign on the issues of transportation, immigration, tariff and senate reform, Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, Saturday officially announced the dissolution by the governor-general, Lord Byng, of the fourteenth parliament of Canada, with nominations in the majority of constituencies through the Dominion on October 22, and general elections on October 29.

The house of commons, the elected house of government of Canada, which passed into history Saturday, was returned on December 6, 1921. Returns from the balloting of that date showed 117 Liberals elected, 50 Conservatives, 64 Progressives and four Laborites and Independents. The Liberals, having the biggest group, were called to power under the leadership of Mackenzie King.

BARÉE, SON OF KAZAN

by
James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"BARÉE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitaphone Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog.
Is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

Barée, the young wolf-dog, wandering in the wilderness, came upon a colony of beavers. He tried to make friends with Unisk, their leader, but the little animals ran away from him, leaving Barée lonely and unhappy. He was attracted by the moaning of the moose and the yap-yap of a fox, but thrilled most at the wolf cry. It was the call of his own, summoning him to the chase, the hunt, the wild orgy of torn flesh and running blood.

For a quarter of an hour Barée watched him while he knocked fish out of the pool. When at last he stopped, there were twenty or thirty fish among the stones, some of them dead and others still flopping. From where he lay flattened out between the two rocks, Barée could hear the crunching of flesh and bones as the bear devoured his dinner. It sounded good, and the fresh smell of fish filled him with a craving that had never been roused by crayfish or even partridge.

Twenty seconds after the last of Wakayoo had disappeared in a turn of the creek, Barée was under the broken balsam. He dragged out a fish that was still alive. He ate the whole of it, and it was delicious.

solved the food problem for him, and this day he did not return to the beaver pond, nor the next. The big bear was incessantly fishing up and down the creek, and day after day Barée continued his feasts.

For a week life continued to be exceedingly pleasant. And then came the break—the change that was destined to mean as much for Barée as that other day, long ago, had meant for Kazan, his father, when he killed the man-brute in the edge of the wilderness.

This change came on the day when, in trotting around a great rock near the waterfall, Barée found himself face to face with Pierrot, the hunter, and Nepeese, the star-eyed girl who had shot him in the edge of the clearing.

It was Nepeese whom he saw first. If it had been Pierrot he would have turned back quickly. But again the blood of his forebear was rousing strange tremblings within him. Was it like this that the first woman had looked to Kazan?

Barée stood still. Nepeese was not more than twenty feet from him. She sat on a rock, full in the early morning sun, and was brushing out her wonderful hair. Her lips parted. Her eyes shone in an instant like stars. One hand remained poised, weighted with the jet tresses. She recognized him. She saw the white star on his breast and the white tip on his ear, and under her breath she whispered "Uchi moosis!"—"The dog-pup!" It was the wild dog she had shot—and thought had died!

The evening before Pierrot and Nepeese had built a shelter of balsams behind the big rock, and on a small white plot of sand Pierrot was kneeling over a fire preparing breakfast while the Willow arranged her hair. He raised his head to speak to her, and saw Barée. In that instant the spell was broken. Barée saw the man-beast as he rose to his feet. Like a shot he was gone.

"Nepeese was not more than twenty feet from him."

Scarcely swifter was he than Nepeese.

"Depechez vous, mon pere!" she cried. "It is the dog-pup! Quick!" In the floating cloud of her hair she sped after Barée like the wind. Pierrot followed, and in going he caught up his rifle. It was difficult for him to catch up with the Willow. She was like a wild spirit, her little moccasined feet scarcely touching the sand as she ran up the long bar. It was wonderful to see the little swiftness of her, and that wonderful hair streaming out in the sun. Even now, in this moment of excitement, it made Pierrot think of McTaggart, the Hudson's Bay Company factor over at Lac Balm, and what he had said yesterday. Half the night Pierrot had lain awake, gritting his teeth at the thought of it; and this morning, before Barée ran upon them, he had looked at Nepeese more closely than ever before in his life. She was beautiful. She was lovelier even than Wyola, her princess mother, who was dead.

Floating back to him there came an excited cry.

"Hurry, Nootawee! He had turned into the blind canyon. He cannot escape us now."

She was panting when he came up to her. The French blood in her glowed a vivid crimson in her cheeks and lips. Her white teeth gleamed like milk.

"In there!" And she pointed. They went in.

Ahead of them Barée was running for his life. He sensed instinctively the fact that these wonderful two-legged beings he had looked upon were all-powerful. And they were after him! He could hear them. Nepeese was following almost as swiftly as he could run. Suddenly he turned into a cleft between two great rocks. Twenty feet in, his way was barred, and he ran back. When he darted out, straight up the canyon, Nepeese was not a dozen yards behind him, and he saw Pierrot almost at her side. The Willow gave a cry.

"Mama—mama—there he is!" She caught her breath, and darted into a cove of young balsams where Barée had disappeared. Like a great entangling web her loose hair impeded her in the brush, and with an encouraging cry to Pierrot she stopped to gather it over her shoulder as he ran past her. She lost only a moment or two, and was after him. Fifty yards ahead of her Pierrot gave a warning shout. Barée had turned. Almost in the same breath he was tearing over his back-trail, directly toward the Willow. He did not see her in time to stop or swerve aside, and Nepeese lunged herself into his path. For two or two they were together. Barée felt the smother of her hair, and the clutch of her hands. Then he squirmed away and darted again toward the blind end of the canyon.

Nepeese sprang to her feet. She was panting—and laughing. Pierrot came back wildly, and the Willow pointed beyond him.

"I had him—and he didn't bite!" she said, breathing swiftly. She still pointed to the end of the canyon, and she said again: "I had him—and he didn't bite me, Nootawee!"

That was the wonder of it. She had been reckless—and Barée had not bitten her! It was then, with her eyes shining at Pierrot, and the smile fading slowly from her lips, that she spoke softly the word "Barée," which in her tongue meant "the wild dog"—a little brother of the wolf.

In and out among the rocks Barée sought swiftly for a way of escape. In a moment more he had come to the "box," or cup of the canyon. This was a break in the wall, fifty or sixty feet wide, which opened into a natural prison about an acre in extent. It was a beautiful spot. On all sides but that leading into the coulee it was shut in by walls of rock. At the far end a waterfall broke down in a series of rippling cascades. The grass was thick underfoot, and strewn with flowers. In this trap Pierrot had got more than one fine haunch of venison. From it there was no escape, except in the face of his rifle. He called to Nepeese as he saw Barée entering it, and together they climbed the slope.

Barée had almost reached the edge of the little prison-meadow when suddenly he stopped himself so quickly that he fell back on his haunches, and his heart jumped up into his throat.

HUNTERS!

Take a bottle of Minard's to the woods with you. Splendid for sprains, cuts, bruises.

Full in his path stood Wakayoo, the huge black bear!

Barée darted to one side and ran for the open meadow. Wakayoo did not stir as Barée sped past him—no more than if he had been a bird or rabbit. Then came another breath of air, heavy with the scent of man. This, at last, put life into him. He turned and began lumbering after Barée into the meadow trap. Barée, looking back, saw him coming—and thought it was pursuit. Nepeese and Pierrot came over the slope, and at the same instant they saw both Wakayoo and Barée.

Where they entered into the grassy dip under the rock walls, Barée turned sharply to the right. Here was a great boulder, one end of it tilted up off the earth. It looked like a splendid hiding place, and Barée crawled under it.

But Wakayoo kept straight ahead into the meadow.

A Canadian Explorer

Major Burwash Starts On a Long Patrol of Northern Points in Canada

When Amundsen made his spectacular flight to the North Pole—or to some point in its vicinity—the whole world was interested. When the McMillan expedition, thoroughly outfitted and equipped in every way for its work of Arctic exploration set out, every item of news about the trip is featured in the press of the world.

Less is heard about the trip a Canadian is making into the far north. The magazine published by the interior department at Ottawa gives some particulars about the little advertised adventure on which Major L. T. Burwash, of the government service, has embarked. Major Burwash has started on a long patrol from the mouth of the Mackenzie River to Hudson's Bay. He goes alone on his two legs, expects to be two years on the journey, and to live with the Eskimos he encounters on the way. He will study the country, estimate the population, make astronomical and meteorological observations, and take notes on bird, animal and floral life. He expects at the end of two years to come out either at Repulse Bay or Chesterfield Inlet, as convenience at the end of the trip may determine.

There is no great publicity about such an adventure as that of Major Burwash. Nor is it unusual for men in the Canadian service to make these long and arduous northern journeys. Men of the department of the interior are forever doing it, as are men of the Mounted Police. There is scarcely an annual report of the Mounted Police issued that does not contain a brief but graphic report of a trip covering long months and thousands of miles on foot, by canoe, dog-sled and snowshoes. These trips are often made by men of action, not writers, or some wonderful books of travel would appear.—Regina Leader.

London Zoo Loses Old Exhibit

White Bear Has Been Entertaining Feature For 22 Years

Sam, the great white bear which has been one of the most entertaining features of the London zoo for 22 years, was recently sentenced to die a military death and was formally shot.

For six months he steadfastly refused to take a bath, although, when in his prime, scrupulous attention to his appearance was one of his many pleasing characteristics.

The reason for Sam's loss of interest in life is domestic. For 19 of his 24 years he was the henpecked husband of a wife even more famous than himself. She died and efforts to find Sam a new wife failed.

Lizzie, three years old and decidedly flapper in her ways, was introduced, but Sam resisted all her charms, treating her with rude coolness until one day Lizzie angered him beyond endurance and he ducked her in the pool and sat on her head. That ended Lizzie's career as Sam's wife, and nearly ended Lizzie's life.

English Oaks Becoming Rare

Not Good For Use Until Tree Is 400 Years Old

England's famed oaks are disappearing. Many oaks were cut down during the war, as the wood was urgently needed. Said a botanist, "The wood of an oak is not really any good until the tree is 400 years old, and people today cannot afford to grow oaks for posterity. Originally large parts of England were covered with oaks. The tree is almost a rarity now in some places. It is said that an oak takes 400 years to grow to full size, is mature for another 400 years, and takes 400 years more to decay. In some cases I should say this is true."

Bells Shipped From London to New York

Large Carillon For Church Weighs Nearly Ten Tons

A large carillon of bells was recently shipped from London for Park Avenue Baptist Church, New York, weighing 9 1/4 tons. Such an unusual shipment necessitated special transport arrangements. Permission had to be obtained from the authorities to convey the biggest bell through the streets, as owing to its size it contravened traffic regulations. The bells were taken from the foundry by lorry to the Thames, where they were transferred to lighters and towed to the ship's side in King George V. dock. There a big floating crane was run alongside and the bells hoisted into one of the Albania's holds, where they were secured on a heavy wooden staging. Scores of bundles of rags were then packed tightly round them. The structural gear for these bells weighs another 10 tons.

Empire Press Meeting in New Zealand Applauds Speech of Canadian

There was a remarkable scene at a banquet given by Premier J. G. Coates at Wellington, New Zealand, in honor of the visiting press delegates, who were on their way to Australia to attend the Imperial press conference, in connection with a speech made by J. H. Woods, of the Calgary Herald, president of the Canadian Press.

Mr. Woods spoke for Canada in response to the welcoming words of Premier Coates, following Lord Burnham, president of the Imperial press conference. Mr. Woods eloquently appealed for tolerance and active sympathy among the dominions.

When he sat down the gathering rose and cheered Canada and the New Zealanders scrambled to shake hands with Mr. Woods. They expressed admiration and good wishes for Canada.

A census undertaken by the Leningrad Academy of Science shows there are 4,265 acknowledged scientists in Leningrad, while in Moscow there are only 2,740. The percentage of women among the Moscow and Leningrad scientists is 14 per cent. and 22 per cent., respectively.

Six new Doukhobor schools, erected by the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, are being rushed to completion to replace those burned in the last couple of years, bringing the number of Doukhobor schools to ten.

The only burned school not being replaced this season is the one at Spencer, whose pupils will be accommodated in the Carson and Columbia schools.

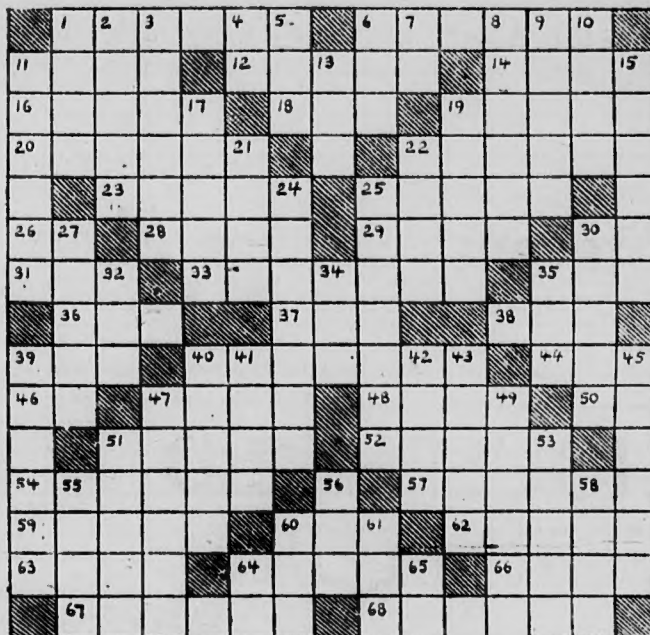

The new schools are at Outlook in the Grand Forks district and at Glads, Krestova and Pass Creek, and two at Brilliant in the Nelson district.

Supplied Prince With Meat

During the stay of the Prince of Wales at the Rand Club in Johannesburg, S.A., an Aberdeen-Angus steer was presented by the Aberdeen-Angus Cattle Society of South Africa for the supply of meat for the royal table. This animal was specially selected from a consignment of Aberdeen-Angus cattle bred and fed by Captain Harold Phillips.

Death of Butterfat Champion

Melba 15th of Darbaira, the Australian Shorthorn, which held the world's record for butterfat production, with 1,614 pounds in 365 days, is dead as the result of an accident. She was close to breaking her own record at the time of her death, and may, indeed, have done so, as the final report has not yet been received. In 330 days of her last lactation she gave 39,285 pounds milk.

Pigs is pigs. Any other name would smell just as sweet perhaps, but nix on their feeding ground. This probably is the thought of our local Board of Health in drawing the attention of owners of these delectable animals to the fact that a permit is necessary.

To stimulate interest in our Junior League Bible Study as outlined in our Catechism, the choice of a pretty card or honor, or a nice League button will be given to every boy or girl present at every Junior meeting during the month of September. Now, come on you boys and girls.

After a month or more "off duty," the Senior League began its regular meetings again last Sunday evening September 6th. A splendid program for the fall and winter has been planned and the co-operation of all the young people is solicited to help work the plow for "the glory of God and the good of man." Among other good things there will be a monthly topic on "Comparative Religions"—the false and the true, beginning with the "Fetish" religion, very ably presented last Sunday evening by Miss Anna Mueller.

The Junior League of the Evangelical church had an enjoyable outing after school on Labor Day. After gathering at the Evan. Parsonage they marched, 35 in number, to the town butte, where about three hours, from 4.30 to 7.30, were spent in wholesome recreation singing booster songs, kodaking, athletics, luncheon, etc. Cordial welcome is extended to others to attend the League.

CHEMIST MAY MAKE MEAT SUBSTITUTE FROM EXTRACT OF COTTON SEED

OTTAWA, Sept. 5. — That synthetic beefsteaks made from the cotton seeds, may some day be manufactured and sold to the public instead of the animal variety now purchased in the meat stores, was the startling statement made by Dr. David Wesson, of New York, ex-president of the American Institute of Chemical Research, last night.

Dr. Wesson stated that recent investigations by the United States department of agriculture had shown that the protein of cotton-seed closely resembles the protein of meat. It is only a question of time before the chemist will find out how to produce a meat substitute from the cotton-seed.

A Wonderland for Children at Wembley

Viscount Jellicoe, former Admiral of the British Navy during the Great War, shaking hands with Sir George McLaren Brown, European General Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, at the miniature Banff Station and seated on the miniature C.P.R. train which takes travellers around Treasure Island. Viscount Jellicoe is remarking: "This is but another of the great things the Canadian Pacific Railway is doing and I am sure that the Canadian Pacific trains are going to prove in conjunction with the wonders of Treasure Island one of the drawing cards of the (Wembley) Exhibition." The engine which draws this train is a replica of engine No. 2200. The Island is intended most of all to delight children who obtain views of a sandy beach on which Robinson Crusoe and Man Friday disport themselves. There, too, the children dig in the sands to their hearts' content and there are caves and Noah's Arks with chains of moving animals; pirates and seventeenth century ships, characters out of fiction such as Pan and Wendy, Long John Silver and Jim Hawkins, Tweedledum and Tweedledee. The train passes through the Colnaught tunnel and winds in and out of the Canadian Rockies through the Great Divide. There are realistic scenes of Banff and Lake Louise and a park of wild animals while from the sands the children climb by pony tracks to the summits of many famous peaks in the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

C.P.R. Crop Report.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 7.—With ideal weather throughout the entire west during the past week rapid progress has been made with harvesting. Wheat cutting is nearing completion and threshing is nicely under way all over the west. In one or two scattered sections slight interference was occasioned by rain but beyond this no harm occurred. There has been no scarcity of help to handle the crop, what shortage has been reported has been due more the matter of distribution than to insufficient men.

ALBERTA.—Cutting in Southern parts of province completed and in northern sections progressing favorably under satisfactory weather conditions. Wheat so far threshed has been good sample and better than last year. Barley also good quality but oats on the whole not quite so good. In the sections around Manyberries, Pakowki and Foremost farmers have been using headers to a great extent and getting satisfaction. Green feed is coming along nicely and is good average crop. Abundance of pasture and cattle are in good condition. Plenty of labor available.

E. D. & B. C. RAILWAY.—Weather since last report has been quite unfavorable for harvesting operations. Great bulk of wheat is cut and considerable oats. In some sections of Grand Prairie district is now quite serious as wheat is commencing to sprout in stook and continued wet weather would soon take heavy toll. Yields and grades have been up to expectations.

The delegates to the Empire Press Conference at Australia who came from Britain and passed through Canada recently spent several days in the Canadian Pacific Rockies and enjoyed themselves trail-riding and hiking among the beauty spots that surround Banff and Lake Louise. Lord Burnham and several other distinguished British journalists established new walking records in covering the distance between Wapita and Emerald Lake in two hours, while it took the trail-riders on ponies two hours and a quarter to cover the same ground.

That 4.4 beer now selling in the Province of Ontario had met with approval and was considered quite satisfactory by people of the province was the statement of Premier G. Howard Ferguson prior to his departure recently for England on the Canadian Pacific Liner "Empress of Scotland." Mr. Ferguson will endeavor to interest British and foreign capitalists in the industrial development of Ontario province.

RED ROSE COFFEE "is good coffee"

The Cow Behind The Wagon

Doleful things are said and written these days about the present generation of youths and maidens, and sharp contrasts to their disadvantage are drawn with their parents and grandparents. We hear and read much to the effect that the young men and women of this age are going to the dogs; that they lack the morals, the stamina, the strength of character of previous generations. Much the same kind of thing was said of mankind in general prior to the Great War—that the race had lost its virility, its power of endurance, its courage and willingness to sacrifice and suffer. But the war demonstrated the falsity of such statements.

None the less it is true that we have lost some of the things that made our fathers and mothers the salt of the earth. In recent years we have heard a good deal about hard times, but contrasted with what the early pioneers of this country had to endure, these years were times of plenty and ease.

The world progresses and it is only right and what should be that succeeding generations should not be called upon to undergo the trials and struggles of bygone days. But our modern civilization, with all its manifold comforts and conveniences, has caused the young men and women of today to expect too much for what they are willing to give; to assume the attitude that the world owes them a living and that they are going to collect it in the easiest and quickest possible way.

Our attention was recently directed to a little local item appearing in a United States paper about a couple that was taking a deferred honeymoon, a honeymoon that took place twenty-five years after marriage. In that item it was stated that this couple, which has achieved a substantial success in the quarter century since marriage, had taken the original wedding trip in a lumber wagon with a cow behind the wagon, a gift of the bride's parents to the happy and hopeful couple.

This little reminder of a quarter century ago struck a popular chord in many memories, for within ten days after the article appeared not less than ten people dropped in at the newspaper office to tell the editor that they, too, had led a cow home behind the wagon after the wedding ceremony, and that their only wedding journey was from the home of the bride to the new home where the couple was to start housekeeping. Most of those who came in were people to whom the years have given good things, many of them being able to buy cows today by the herd, if they wanted the critters. All of them gave credit for their success to their willingness to start with little and work hard for advancement.

The cow behind the wagon, says this newspaper, is symbolic of a generation of real workers, men and women who faced the world with little but with earnest ambition, willing to give for what they wanted. Armed with youth, determination, health and strength, the world was theirs for the taking.

The pioneers of fifty, even twenty-five years ago, first required a home. But the ambition of a large percentage of young people today is to own an automobile, whether they have a home or not. They will mortgage the future for present gratification. Forgetful, or perhaps ignorant, that "it is not the original cost but the upkeep," they blithely sign a bunch of promises to pay, fill up the tank with gas and are off. Off to where?

Despite all the talk of hard times, there are more advantages for the ordinary man and woman today than there have ever been before, but the men and women who wish to attain success must be prepared to pay the same price as our fathers and mothers and those before them paid—they must give before they get.

Word, hard work, and lots of it is one of the fine things life has to offer. There is nothing quite so satisfying as to begin at the bottom and climb, to start with little and accumulate for yourself. The boy or girl who does not have to strive for themselves, but who have everything found for them by their parents, are not the really fortunate ones, as we are sometimes led to believe. The young couple starting out in life where their parents left off miss the joy of achievement which their fathers and mothers experienced, and they never know that close and sympathetic comradeship which is realized by those who plan and work together shoulder to shoulder.

Peanuts and Almonds

Mr. Jack Prout, an enterprising young farmer near Portage la Prairie, has made a venture this year by attempting to grow peanuts and almonds. So far he has succeeded, and expects to have a satisfactory crop. Although he sowed his initial crop last year with good results, he embarked on a larger scale this season, and hopes it may prove a remunerative investment.

Marriage is the end of all man's troubles—one end or the other.

Invents New Method of Weaving

Cutting of cotton imports into Germany by half may result from a new method of weaving cloth with hemp, invented by the German textile expert, Dr. Gminder. The hemp, it is expected, will replace in part the cotton formerly used in the cloth. There are about 5,000,000 acres of moorland in Germany adapted to the raising of hemp.

Flying Into Matrimony

Swedish Couple Had Ceremony Performed On Board Aeroplane

A young Swedish couple were recently married while flying through the air on board an aeroplane. When the machine, carrying a full complement of passengers, had risen to a height of 1,500 ft., an altar was erected in the cabin, before which a Swedish clergyman performed the marriage ceremony, with a lawyer and his wife as witnesses. A wedding breakfast was then served, and the health of the couple drunk in champagne by all the passengers. The clergyman and the lawyer left the machine at Hamburg, but the couple continued their honeymoon trip to Amsterdam.

TONIC TREATMENT FOR INDIGESTION

The Surest Way to Relieve Stomach Trouble is Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

When the stomach is feeble and food lies in it undigested, the poisonous gases distend the walls of the stomach and cause serious interference with the action of the heart and lungs. These poisonous gases have other ill effects. They are absorbed by the blood and so weaken and corrupt it as to cause aches in remote parts of the body and the formation of unhealthy tissue everywhere. Experience shows that these troubles vanish just as soon as the stomach is made strong enough to digest the food. In other words, it needs a tonic that will enable it to do the work of changing the food into nourishment. The tonic used ought to be one that will agree with the most delicate stomach and this is exactly what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do.

Here is a bit of convincing proof given by Mrs. Chas. Ladner, Ellerslie, P.E.I., who says:—"For some years I was a sufferer from stomach trouble. Everything I ate caused distress, sour stomach and belching. I could not eat meat or potatoes, and I grew weak and very nervous. No medicine seemed to help me until I was persuaded to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these simply worked wonders. I took the pills faithfully for a couple of months, by which time every symptom of the trouble had disappeared, and there has not since been the slightest symptom of stomach trouble. No wonder I praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Trying New Experiment

Boys in London Orphanage Educated As Individuals

In this day of specialization it is interesting to read of a novel experiment in education which is being tried, so far with signal success, by one of the orphanages of London. Each boy is treated as an individual, and a separate timetable is drawn up for his benefit. Class work is in this way abolished altogether. A boy is encouraged to specialize in the particular branch for which he is fitted, and the confident hope is expressed that in this way those whom the institution sends out into the world will be found specially equipped for the vocation in life they are to follow.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 13

PAUL IN THESSALONICA AND BOREA

Golden Text: Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. I. Thessalonians 5:21.

Lesson: Acts 17:1-12. Devotional Reading: I. Thessalonians 5:21.

The Text Explained and Illumined

Paul preaches in Thessalonica, verses 1-3.—From Philippi Paul and his companions went by way of the cities of Amphipolis and Apollonia to Thessalonica. Here at Thessalonica they remained several months, as we know from Paul's letters to the Thessalonians, but Luke speaks only of his preaching in the synagogue for three successive Sabbaths. Luke says he "reasoned with them"; he cited Scripture passages which were prophetic of the Christ; he then showed that Jesus fulfilled these prophecies, and thus reasoned, or argued, that Jesus is the Christ. Arnot explains Paul's reasoning by this figure: "The Jews were like little children who had a tree in their garden, their father's legacy. The children had gathered the nuts as they grew, and laid them up with reverence in a store house; but they knew not how to break open the shell and so got the meat out of the nuts. Paul broke the shell, opened out the kernel, and presented it as food to the hungry."

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and a cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

After Many Years

French and Belgian Troops Turn Ruhr Over to Germans

The French and Belgian troops have turned over the Ruhr to the Germans after four years occupation, undertaken to compel Germany to pay reparations. There were no disturbances, no demonstrations, no public expression of either regret or pleasure. There were, however, many emotional partings between young French soldiers and their German sweethearts.

Waiting impatiently outside the city, 1,500 security police were assembled to take over the general policing.

The allied army marched out with bands playing.

Distinguishing Marks Necessary

There are so many people named Smith in England, that a symbol, known as the monomark, has been patented to distinguish them. There are a total of 530,000 Smiths in business. Of these 294,000 are J. Smith, 41,000 John Smith, 30,000 John W. Smith and 5,000 John William Smith.

British Coal Exports Increase

A statement of the coal division of the department of commerce on the British coal situation, sent by radio from London, points out that, while British coal exports fell off in the first seven months of the year, the export of 319,000 tons to Canada in the seven-month period represented a big increase. The British coal industry is said to be slowly resuming operations after the labor crisis.

Rapid Fire Gun Disappears

Failed to Arrive at French Station and Cannot Be Found

Mystery surrounds the disappearance of a newly invented rapid fire gun built on lines of the Lewis gun, from which great things had been hoped for. The weapon disappeared from the railroad depot at Brive la Gaillarde, France, while in transit.

The gun, which is the invention of the workmen of a Tulle arms factory, was being shipped to a proving ground for trial before a parliamentary commission prior to its adoption by the army. It failed to arrive and an inquiry was started. It was traced to Brive la Gaillarde, where the box in which it had been packed was found to have been opened. Parts of the gun were scattered about the depot. It is not known whether the parts were abstracted to be copied in the interest of some foreign power or whether the breaking open of the box was due to carelessness by railway employees.

Danger From Yellow Races

Is Economic Rather Than Military Says Dean Inge

Dean Inge, who recently visited Canada, thinks the danger to the white races will come, not from the black nor from the red races, but from the yellow and the brown—the Japanese, the Chinese, and the Indians. He believes that for a long time to come the danger will not be of a military but of an economic character. The question was how the high-standard European and American was to cope with the cheap labor, perhaps directed by white capital, of the Asiatic races.

Nights of Agony come in the train of asthma. The victim cannot lie down, and sleep is driven from his brain. What grateful relief is the immediate effect of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. It banishes the frightful conditions, clears the passages, and enables the afflicted one to again sleep as soundly and restfully as a child. Insist on the genuine at your nearby druggist.

NO PLAN WAS MADE TO FORM WESTERN PARTY

Winnipeg.—"Nothing was ever said or suggested by me at the inter-provincial Progressive convention at Regina, or, for that matter, at any other time or place, making a plea for union of Liberal and Progressive forces in the west," said Hon. T. A. Crerar when interviewed in connection with a story published here. Knowledge of a move to form any such coalition was also denied by Robert Forke, Progressive leader, and Hon. A. B. Hudson, South Winnipeg member.

"You may say for me," he said, "that I never heard anything about such a move. When the report credits me with having made a speech at the Regina convention putting forward an ardent plea for union of Progressive and Liberal forces in the west, with the object of making certain, if possible, defeat of the Conservatives, it is absolutely and positively untrue. Far from ever making such a statement, I never even suggested it, directly or indirectly."

"It's a piece of news to me," said Mr. Forke, over the long distance phone. "So far as the Progressives are concerned, no such move has been made. We would have nothing to do with any such union."

Hon. Mr. Hudson said no one had ever asked his opinion on such a question, and no such idea had ever been suggested to him.

British Wait Decision On Mosul Boundary

Secretary of Foreign Affairs Says Question Contains War Menace

London.—Austen Chamberlain, British secretary of foreign affairs, has gone to Geneva to attend to the League of Nations council assembly, which is faced with two principal problems—the Mosul question and European security.

The league's decision on the report of the Mosul boundary commission is awaited with keen interest in official British circles. The London Star, an evening newspaper, warns of the danger of war over Mosul if the Turks decide to fight Great Britain for possession of Mosul Vilayet, but well-informed circles believe this view to be unfounded and expect a satisfactory settlement at Geneva.

Rome Is Insolvent

Once Ruled World, Cannot Pay Costs Of Administration Now

Rome.—The Eternal City, which for centuries ruled the world, now even loses its rights to city administration. Its insolvent financial condition compelled the government to take action and the cabinet decided to adopt the city, so the taxpayers throughout the country would contribute to the support of the capital. Although taxes in Rome have been higher than in any city in Italy, it has been unable to pay the costs of administration. The administration is now under the minister of the Interior, who appoints a governor.

Favor Ban On Narcotics

Trades and Labor Council Would Prohibit Manufacture Except For Medicine

Ottawa.—The trades and labor congress went on record favoring the complete prohibition of the sale and manufacture of narcotic drugs except for medical purposes.

The motion was the occasion for a brief criticism of the British Government. T. Buck, of Toronto, declared that the British Government was largely responsible for the opium traffic of the world today because of its fostering of the industry in India and should be subject to severe censure.

James MacDonald, Toronto, said it one country more than another was responsible for the opium trade, it was the British empire. There was no such thing as a British commonwealth of nations, he said.

Bert Merson, Toronto, declared that the British empire alone was not responsible and the immediate or speedy suppression of the industry would cause Germany and other countries to commence the manufacture of deadly substitutes. Britain was open to criticism as were other nations, and the congress should be on record as opposed to the traffic, which was one of the greatest menaces to public health.

Sydney, Australia.—The Empire Press delegates to the Imperial Press conference at Melbourne, who visited New Zealand on their way to Australia, arrived here after a somewhat stormy voyage from New Zealand. They were welcomed by Premier Bruce of the Australian Commonwealth.

Premier Bruce described the coming Imperial Press conference as the unofficial parliament of the British Commonwealth of nations.

"The fuller knowledge resulting from the interchange of ideas," Premier Bruce said, with reference to the press conference, "will enable the conference to make a valuable contribution to the solution of empire problems. The delegates have at their responsible command potent instruments for moulding and directing public opinion, and have as an audience the whole people of the empire."

Ancient Escutcheon Back In Quebec

Hon. P. C. Larkin Brings Relic Returned By People Of Hastings, England

The arrival of the White Star-Dominion liner, Megantic, which docked at Quebec recently, marked an important event in the history of that city, inasmuch as she carried among her passengers the Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian high commissioner in London, who brought back to this country the ancient escutcheon of King Louis XV. of France. No public ceremony was held, this having been postponed until September 10, to enable many prominent citizens, now away from their home, to attend.

The historic shield was removed from one of the gates of Quebec in 1759, after the capture of that city by Wolfe, and was taken to England by General Murray. Since that time, this relic of the French regime has been in the possession of the city of Hastings, England, and some time ago negotiations were started with a view to its restoration which resulted in its return. The escutcheon measures four feet high and three feet wide, and is beautifully carved and painted. Mr. Larkin has had constructed a mahogany case for the shield and during its journey across the Atlantic it has been carefully stored in a room specially provided on the Megantic.

MINE WORKERS ARE ASSAILED BY EMPLOYERS

Philadelphia.—Anthracite operators emphasized "the need to insist that a settlement of the suspension shall include measures in avoiding future strikes."

W. W. Inglis, in a statement to this effect, which he made public in Scranton, as chairman of the anthracite operators' scale committee, assailed the action of the mine workers in stopping work because no contract had been negotiated to replace the one which expired.

The following are some facts about the big anthracite strike:

Workers involved, 158,000.

Collieries affected, 272, serving 828 mines.

Companies involved, 135, of which nine control 138 of the largest collieries.

Area affected, 10 counties in North-eastern Pennsylvania covering 500 square miles, practically the only commercial anthracite in the United States.

Maintenance men remaining on duty to preserve property, 8,000 to 10,000.

Loss in wages per day, $1,150,000.

Loss in daily production, 266,000 tons.

Cause of suspension: Expiration of two-year contract August 31, 1925, and failure to reach new agreement.

Demands of union miners: 10 per cent. increase in tonnage rates; $1 a day additional for day men; check-off; equalization of day rates; two-year contract, and other features.

Reply of operators: Would not consider demands that increased cost of mining, and suggested that differences be arbitrated.

HE WHO RUNS MAY READ.
The above pictures were taken near Lake Louise by a member of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies during the recent Ride and Pow-wow. According to the photographer's version of the story the deer walked deliberately up to the sign-board, read the notice and, after snorting contemptuously proceeded to feast himself upon the forbidden flowers with all the gusto of a lumber-jack attacking a plate of ham-and-eggs. It was, he said, a wilful piece of law-breaking, committed in cold blood and with malice aforethought solely intended to show a disgraceful disrespect for constituted authority and the decrees of the Lords of Creation.
Another onlooker, however, is willing to take a solemn oath that the deer was a doe and that she was browsing guiltlessly among the boulders when the pretty flowers attracted her attention and she started to collect a few to take to her dear old grandmother who was sick in bed at home. After she had innocently gathered a mouthful of the tempting blossoms, declares this witness, the doe suddenly came across the notice board, studied it for a moment and immediately returned the flowers to where she had picked them.

Although it is understood that the local police are investigating, it is doubtful if the truth of the matter will ever be fully known. In the meantime, however, we hope that all right thinking Christian people will give the dear little deer or doe or whatever it is, the benefit of the doubt. There is incidentally no truth in the rumour that a collection is being taken up at Banff to cover the costs of her,
